Simon Owen RDT DipCdtRCS(Eng) Clinical Dental Technician GDC 164114

Simon has been making dentures for over 20 years. He gained his initial dental technology qualification in Manchester in 1993 and has run his own successful dental laboratory since then.

To further his career, he has achieved diplomas in Clinical Dental Technology from both Toronto, Canada and the Royal College of Surgeons, which has allowed registration with the General Dental Council to work directly with patients.

Why refer?

Do you have patients for whom you are struggling to meet their demands, patients with multiple sets of dentures or have had frequent re-makes? Simon can utilise his specialised training and expertise to personally assess each individual patient's features, their facial profile, smile and how they talk. By discussing and seeing first hand any existing problems; Simon is able to work closely with each patient allowing complete chairside control to obtain the desired cosmetic results.

Simon utilises multi-phase impression techniques for the optimum fit and comfort. We appreciate that both the patient's and practitioner's time is valuable and therefore, being able to craft each denture from bite block to finished try-in reduces the need for additional visits that are often required.
